

Western Sydney University, one of the largest universities in Australia, is a national leader in nursing and midwifery education, research and scholarship, with one of the largest undergraduate pre-registration nursing degree courses in Australia.

In a successful and rewarding collaboration with Western Sydney University since 1991, the School of Continuing Education, Hong Kong Baptist University has offered Bachelor's and Master's degree programmes in health care, and now over 4,600 professional participants have graduated.

Master of Nursing (Clinical Leadership)

The programme is uniquely designed for nursing professionals to develop their leadership capacity in a manner that enables them to implement transformative change while maintaining nursing excellence within the clinical practice environment.

Master of Primary Health Care

We are delighted to announce the re-launch of the Master of Primary Health Care programme! The programme is jointly offered by Western Sydney University and the School of Continuing Education of Hong Kong Baptist University. The programme aims to equip nurses, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, dietitians, and all healthcare providers on the knowledge and skills to provide healthcare services in the primary healthcare and community settings.
